Seti Tese Fay dedicates her practice in various areas of law, including construction law, bankruptcy, surety representation, insurance defense, and employment law. Seti started her legal career as an Assistant Legal Counsel at the Permanent Court of Arbitration (“PCA”) located in The Hague, Netherlands, where she administered investor-state and inter-state disputes. After her time at the PCA, Seti worked at a boutique German law firm as an International Associate, dealing mainly with various international commercial disputes, such as construction and post-M&A disputes. Prior to joining Weinstein Radcliff and Pipkin, Seti practiced securities litigation and represented broker dealers in front of FINRA arbitration panels. Seti’s experience in international and domestic arbitration allows her to bring a unique perspective in helping clients resolve their disputes.
